Hoserburgerhead! Is it Christmas already? Gee, I don't know if I should wish you a Merry Christmas. I mean, you throw numerous objects of various shapes and sizes at me, you ping me off with elastic bands, you practically break my tooth with a paper cup and you squeek in my ear! However, you do bring me muffins (even if they're half eaten), you did give me Nicrophorous sp. (with associated mites), you did save me from the Bookstore Lunatic and you make me laugh. Oh OK - Merry Christmas lanlyl.

Annettely

P.S. Stay out of little rooms .. Whoa!

Dear Kim & Jennifer (E-2).

Thanks for putting me to bed the other week. I still say you should have taken advantage of me (in the non-biblical sense, that is) or gotten somebody else to (you know who). Merry Christmas sex goddesses.

Love, The Woman

Greetings to The Underground.

What humour and craziness I've encountered these couple of weeks will have some bearing. Specially dedicated to:
-Vangie's 'cold-blooded machine (KITT)'. Rambo should check that out
-Helen's full body swaying to the rhythm kind of drives me into grooving
-Byron's quick witted sense of 'Universal knowledge' got me staring at a blank wall many a time
-Pete's & Rod's togetherness in the dark room leaves me grasping for breath
-Melvyn's 'so-called' addiction to ski-ing when there's no snow in the tropics
-Dennis love with his Ha-Ha's, if only his Ha-Ha's could match his personality, then that's something
-Last, but not least, to the boss Hanif who 'trapped' me into staring at the monitor all night long
Nevertheless, a sensational and fun-loving Christmas to all.

Only me. Felix

P.S. Everyone has to come up with better antics next term.

Barbie.

You never call, I miss you. Remember, if you need me, I'm only seven numbers away.

Hanif

To The Sex God

Let's cruise the caf for chics. With your widespread reputation, we should have a great time! (we won't say anthing more about your HICKEY!)

Plebian on the staff

Dear Dare (9-2).

You epitomize the word sexy. Merry Christmas you volumptuous woman.

Love, Your ex-roomie

To the Boy with the big blue eyes who loves to stare (usually sporting brightly coloured sweaters-red,yellow, green)

Have a Merry Christmas - and smile once in a while.

From the girl who loves to stare back with the green-grey eyes.

For John C.

Merry Christmas, sweetie pie. I hope we continue having illicit meeting every Friday.

Eric Baby.

Licks Burgers,Megatonnes of Ice cream, one hot summer day, the rocks at the beach - What more could two beach bums ask for? Have a good X-mas. So sad to see you go. You can gum me any day!

Love The Monbee

To the Jag lover

Every little thing she does is magic Every little thing just turns me on
Even though my love for her is tragic
Even so my love for her goes on
To the pretty face in B01
Sentiments from

S.T. & The Police

Merry Christmas to Herb,Herb & Herb.

Santa said we won prize for best costume!!

Love & Hugs,
Lucile & Lucile.

P.S. uh-huh, uh-huh!!!

To Rod,the self proclaimed stud. Marin.

SPORTS ON THE FRONT PAGE?!! NEVER!! You sporting types are all alike! Anyways looking forward to cleaning your clock on the ski hills this December.

Your bearded friend
Pete

Byron, my boy buddy.

You've restored my faith in the male race.

Your fellow industrious anthro. Scholar

Felix: I'm going to tell everyone you eat live grasshoppers & cockroaches. Please no more army war stories OK. Ok, you're Rambo, alright?

Sheesh. Vangie

To the "Lawyer Jr" from the "mixed-up, crazy person".

I'm happy and I'm loud,
I'm jealous and I'm proud
Forget the letter,
I wish you'd never met her
Christmas will never be the same again.

Exile.

Hey little girl, come sit on my lap and I'll give you nice Christmas goose.

Santa Pardo

Dearest Yin.

How I wish to gaze into your deep dark eyes,
To feel your soft skin,
To moisten your glistening lips
and stroke your thick black hair.

Love Yours Truly, B.C.L.

To Martina 'Sunita' Naratilova

I look forward to lobbing, passing and aceing you 'U of T Open' on Dec 8

Ian 'Arthur' Lendl

P.S. Jean, Here's to a Merry Christmas and a well cooked dinner at your house.

Artie

To the sexy blond who sits outside the H-wing cafe at noon.

I think you're the greatest, I'd do anything to meet you. If you feel the same, please wear a red top and sit on the couches outside the H-wing cafe Fri, Dec. 5th.

XOXO
The Beaver.

Julie Sweet Heart

'You're the best thing that happen to me since I was born. I can always count on you to cheer me up when I'm feeling low and to give me the support and encouragement to fulfill my dreams. I just want to say You're the Greatest!' Merry Christmas and keep smiling.

Love you always Han Yin
Dec'86 XOXOXOXO

To Paul (my Veepee).

Nobody loves me. Everybody hates me. If you don't say you care - I'll go eat worms. Merry X'mas.

love, Jeeu

To my housemates in A-2.

Thank you for a great fall lets make the spring even better.
Merry Christmas and happy holidays!

Tom

Dearest Mi-mi and El-El

To 2 great gals
Who make fine pals
Let's stay together
Forever and ever
You know you guys will always be on my mind and in my heart
For you both have a role in life
not just be some guy's good little wife
The 3 of us
Together we'll make
Quite a threesome
Causing big wakes
So us three chums
With a bottle of rum
Will stay a threesome
When old age comes.
Merry X-mas guys.

Memories 84
Jules

Bridgid, Andina and Lisa.

So far we've managed to get along great. Don't we make a great team?! Those late nights talks have been very educational-especially for our daughter!
Have a great Christmas holiday!!

Love, Leslie

Papa Bear:

I love you now as always and miss having you near me. Christmas would be so lonely without you. Surely the love is worth the effort?!!

Love always

Besides Beat Misses You.

Art or should I say Bay Man.

Let's book the court man. Kennex Leats Kneissel everytime. Merry Christmas.

Sunita

To all my friends at U of T.

From the still very unemployed me. Merry Christmas, and Happy New Year.

Colin 875

P.S. A little money in the card wouldn't hurt.

To Mellow.

Or not to mellow. Get up and let them know you're out there! Thumb's up for skiing! Merry Christmas.

Matt

P.S. I want my key back! We are all going to go skating this year!!

Merry Christmas to our favorite men at Scarborough:

Andy and Dave (Super jocks)
William and Paul (our personal co-pilots)
EJ and Brad (my European loves)
Gilen and Brent (bowling husbands)
Rob (or should we say, Scrooge!)
And how could we forget Santa's helpers: Sam, Noel and Joe!
Good luck with your exams-
Well see you in the New Year
Love,

Carmen & Jeanette

P.S. Sam: Were watching you with blank cheque books!!

To the girls in A-3

I want to wish you a Merry X-mas
And a very happy holiday
I only hope that next term
You will feed me grapes again

To the girls in the French Club

I'm looking forward to the Winter Carnival for 3 days and 2 nights of heaven.
Merry Christmas!

Felix (nothing more than Felix).

Before you joined up, the staff thought Singaporeans were weird people. Now, they believe it even more!

A Comrade.

Iggy or Inkhead or Ingrit. I've found out about your secret life and I'm going to tell all if you don't include me. - Or else I'll have to resort to blackmail (you'll have to hand in all of your essays in on time).

The Bang For Your Buck

By David Brooker

Most of the students here at Scarborough Campus know that the Scarborough Campus Student Council (SCSC) exists, but do not know who the individuals are who make up SCSC, as well as their salaries (which are student funded) and the scope of their duties.

Since SCSC does serve you, the students, and since you do pay for it anyway, these facts should be of interest to the student body.

The President of SCSC, Shawn Rabishaw, describes himself as "being responsible for everything SCSC does." Rabishaw's job entails overseeing all aspects of council and organizing projects.

The delegation of responsibility and decentralization of SCSC is one of Rabishaw's goals in his work. He is also in charge of special projects such as the proposed R-wing renovation.

Rabishaw estimates that he works about 20 hours a week during the school year and substantially less during the summer months.

In past summers, a researcher had been paid to help the President in his job, this summer, however, there was no such position. Rabishaw would like to see the researcher reinstated as a "viable position for the next year." For his labours, the President receives $3,500 annually.

Vice-President in charge of Administration, Deborah Spencer, estimates that she works about 10-15 hours per week during the school year. She does not work for SCSC during the summer months.

Assisting the President and the Vice-President of Finance are among Spencer's duties, as well as being responsible for SCSC office staff such as the bookkeeper and receptionist. She is also one of the Pub Officers, a job which she describes as "helping the Pub out."

Spencer's pet project for the year, which takes up most of her time at SCSC, are the by-law amendments. A salary of $1,200 is paid annually to the Vice-President for her services.

The various honoraria which are paid to members of council at the termination of their terms also comes under Spencer's jurisdiction. The total amount alloted for honoraria is $4,000. How the amount will be split up amongst the various council members - Services, Academic, Cultural, Communications, Part Time, and Vice-President Finance.

The day to day upkeep of the duplicating centre is done by Amy Mina, who, according to SCSC Communications Commissioner Helen Christodoulou, works on average 15-20 hours per week at $6 per hour.

The manager of Scarborough Radio (CSCR), Dave MacKenzie, takes home $70 a week. Mackenzie's duties are largely administrative. McKenzie is currently not a Scarborough student and spends very little time at the radio station.

The daily running of the radio station is performed by the program director, Alvin Ng. Ng is paid $60 a week. Both MacKenzie and Ng work all year and their weekly hours vary.

The running of The Pub and other licenced events on campus is done by the "Beverage Manager", Ira Baptiste. While Baptiste would not disclose her salary, she did say that she works 40 hours per week on average, and that her job is full time.

Checking the SCSC budget, we can deduce that Baptiste's yearly salary is approximately $28,000. Added to this figure would be various benefits such as possible Christmas bonuses and free tuition.

Responsibilities of the Beverage Manager include enforcing the adherance of the liquor hours on Scarborough Campus, booking of bands and other special projects in The Pub, and the running of beverage services for special Friday night functions in the Meeting Place.

SCSC also hires two other full-time workers. The SCSC secretary, who receives an annual remuneration of about $18,200 and the SCSC bookkeeper, who receives an annual salary of approximately $24,570. Both of these salaries, along with the Pub Manager's salary, are paid for by the SCSC budget and subsidized by the students.

Although The Underground staff is not a part of SCSC, their staff salaries are partially funded by a direct student levy.

The total salaries of The Underground staff is $4,000. The Editor of The Underground, Hanif Sarangi, takes home $60 a week for 26 weeks, for his work as the chief staffer of the Scarborough College paper.

Sarangi is not paid for weeks when a paper is not published, and his salary paid for the year is $1,560 or $30 per week. Sarangi puts in about 60 hours a week performing his duties as Editor.

The rest of The Underground editorial staff, including Assistant Editor Melvyn Low, receive $10 a week to cover food and travel expenses. Additionally honoraria of $5 - $10 a week are sometimes given out. These honoraria are included in the $4,000.

A comparison of SCSC salaries with Erindale College Student Union (ECSU) salaries reported in a recent edition of the Varsity brings some very interesting results.

According to The Varsity, ECSU President, Al Smith receives $100 per week for 52 weeks. His two Vice-Presidents receive $3,500 annually, and all eight ECSU directors get free tuition.

Smith receives $1,700 more than the SCSC President, Rabishaw, plus the costs of the two and a half courses that he takes. The Vice-Presidents at Erindale make $2,600 more than the SCSC Vice-President of Administration makes at Scarborough; however, Spencer does not work through the summer while ECSU officers do.

Street People and the Sadder Side of Christmas

By Nieves Reixach

Christmas; a cold, lonely and cruel ordeal. For some people, there will be no family joy or presents. Instead, a Scott Mission handout, some cheap bitters and a can of lysol will be their only comfort.

At least this is the case for thousands of people who live on the streets of Toronto. One such person is Chuck,whose sole possessions are the filthy and tattered clothes which he has on his back, a Woolco bag and a necklace made out of wilted maple leaves. In fact, thousands of people dread Christmas since it evokes happier memories of life before the streets.

According to Grant Lennie, the assistant executive secretary of the Good Neighbour's Club, the city of Toronto is like a jungle; everything appears to be fine on the surface until the leaves are lifted and the garbage is exposed.

One major "masked" problem is the existence of street people. Unless one goes to such places as the Yonge Street Strip or the "Jarvis Track",these people remain largely a forgotten population. The transient problem is one that has existed for years, yet the situation is becoming worse since many teenagers have also chosen street life.

The result is that hostels are being filled to capacity and many of the older transients are being displaced. There are 2500 hostel beds across Toronto, and half of them are being used by kids. A power struggle has developed between the street veterans and the teenagers. Many of the transients resent the newcomers, claiming there is no real reason for them being on the street.

In Dundas Subway Station a man playing a guitar hopefully looks down at his open case while Jimmy and Mike, who have been living in parks, hostels and vacant buildings, try to keep warm. They feel dehumanized as passing people give them pitying looks, yet Jimmy and Mike perk up immediately when spoken to. And why not? They have all the time in the world to talk.

Jimmy and Mike are from Nova Scotia and have been living on the streets of Toronto for the past eleven years. Both of them are in their 40's, yet their weathered faces make them look like 60. Both had jobs and families and blame alcohol for the downward spiral which left them alone and penniless on the street. They have also been charged with loitering countless times and Mike served time in a Halifax prison for violent robbery and a breaking and entering offense.

A common misconception is that all street people have backgrounds similar to Mike and Jimmy's. According to Lennie,"we've seen people who run the gamut from ex-criminals to former professionals such as doctors and professors." No social class is spared from street proverty.

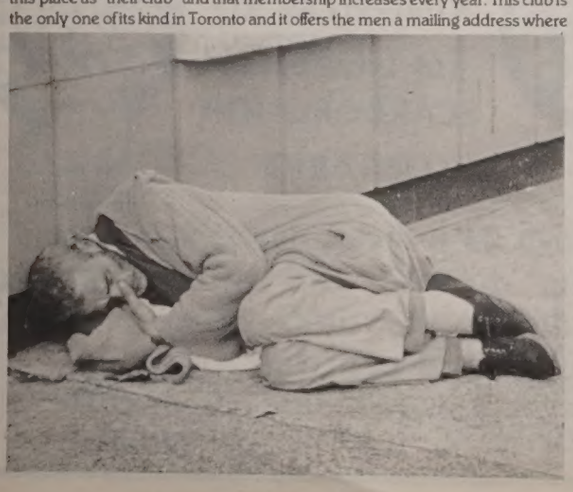
"... it is not uncommon to be woken up during the night by the pain of a combat boot kicking his ribs. ..."

Life on the street is not easy and the surge of younger kids has made survival for the older and more vulnerable transients just that much harder. As Jimmy and Mike speak of hostel life they both become bitter. Mike admits that hostels such as Seaton House and the Fred Victor Mission do provide the essentials of food and a bed, yet they are also havens for lice, fights and theft.

They emphatically recall the many times which they've been beaten by the street teens whom they call "punks". According to Jimmy, it is not uncommon to be woken up during the night by the pain of a combat boot kicking his ribs. Jimmy expecially resents the fact that these able-bodied teens can find work if they really want to. He's disgusted that "these punks are so ungrateful and spoiled; they at least have families, not like us."

A typical routine for a street person is that he/she will spend the night in a hostel, be served breakfast and then turned outside for dinner. During the day many drink to stay warm, rummage through garbage and try to stay clear of trouble. However, avoiding confrontations with "punks" is not always easy.

A partial solution to this problem is The Good Neighbours Club, which serves as a day centre for street men who are over 50. Lennie states that the men see this place as "their club" and that membership increases every year. This club is the only one of its kind in Toronto and it offers the men a mailing address where they can be reached. It is one place that the street people can find shelter, relaxation and companionship. The men are also given mental and financial counselling and a place to pick up their compensation and pension cheques.



Lennie adds that the street men whom he sees are more or less resigned to their situation. He finds that the loosely enforced rule of having to pay 1¢ for coffee also restores the men's dignity. Not all transients like to accept "handouts". In Lennie's opinion, media accounts of transients freezing to death are highly exaggerated. It is estimated that only 100 people choose to rough it during the winter. Of this number, only a few die and the media blows these incidents out of proportion.

Yet the death last winter of a 41 year old bag lady named Drina Joubert also served to highlight the major problem of people having to live on the streets. Her death forced people to admit that there is a problem in Toronto.

Lennie states that everyone has the choice to sleep inside but some just don't want to. He says that he "can't justify, explain or even rationalize" why some people insist on sleeping outside in February. On the coldest days these stubborn vagrants stay warm by wearing garbage-padded layers of clothing. They also "squat" or inhabit vacant buildings. They sleep in such places as Goodwill boxes and on top of air vents.

It seems that street people spend most of their cheques on alcohol. Bitters costing $1.75 are popular because they are cheep and contain 40% alcohol. The drinking of Lysol is also a favorite pastime. The men perforate the aerosol can to let the gas escape and then they drink the layer of undistilled alcohol at the bottom of the can. This can lead to blindness, but they continue to take their chances.

"... kids who haunt the streets are runaways, victims of abuse, foster kids and prostitutes. ..."

Many transients also have drug, alcohol and medication addictions. Often hostels refer these people to detox centres such as the Harbour Light Centre. Eileen McKee, an addictions specialist at the centre, says that over the years the clientele have gotten younger. Indeed this is to be expected since more teenagers are inhabiting the streets.

Just how do people end up on the street? The reasons are varied and no generalizations can be made. Many of the kids who haunt the streets are runaways, victims of abuse, foster kids and prostitutes. Some of the older transients had not planned for their retirement, are poor, have alcohol problems and are disabled and therefore unemployable.

Another misconception concerning street life is that hostels become even more crammed as the weather gets colder. According to Mr. Romanson, the director of Seaton House, the peak periods are Labour Day and the Thanksgiving weekend. These people just want the companionship of others since they are basically out of touch with their own families.

There are a number of services in Toronto geared to street people. The distressing fact is that the services cannot meet the demands. The heavy influx of street kids has strained hostels and food banks. The biggest problem cited is the definite lack of affordable housing in Toronto. The poor cannot even afford to rent a room and are forced into living on the street. They have no alternative but to concentrate on survival.

If longterm housing is not made available soon, hostels will continue to be used as hotels and not as the emergency shelters they are designed to be. The current housing boom in Toronto makes the chance of longterm housing in the near future unlikely.

A hostel's main concern is not to encourage dependency, but to provide temporary shelter and to help get the person back on his feet so he can find a job. Romanson feels that society would be a lot better off if there were no need for hostels.

"... Street people are also evident in the Highland Creek area near Scarborough Campus. ..."

Jimmy and Mike's future plans include scraping enough change together in order to get their belongings out of a locker at the Eaton Centre. It is obvious that these people live day to day. Mike and Jimmy feel angry at the way their lives have turned out and admit that they can only blame themselves. However, they do blame the government of Canada to a certain extent. Mike is outraged because, in his opinion, the Canadian government has treated the Tamil refugees better than the poor in Canada's own backyard. He feels that charity should begin at home.

It is important to realize that the transient problem is not confined to downtown Toronto. Street people are also evident in the Highland Creek area near Scarborough Campus. Without doubt, many Scarborough students have seen the bearded man who wears a checked coat and cap, even in the heat of summer, hanging around the Morningside area.

Many people find street people strange and even a bit frightening. It is therefore surprising to discover that this man is perfectly normal when spoken to. He, and many others like him are victims of a stereotype.

The hobo life may disgust you, intrigue you, or make you feel pity. The only thing that these people ask of you, besides the occasional quarter, is that to remember that they are human too. MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL.

The criteria on which the following grades were accessed include: attendance, speaking ability, initiative, input, communication and overall effectiveness. The marking scheme is as follows: A-excellent, B-good, C-average, D-poor and F-failure.

Shawn Rabishaw SCSC President	Mr. Rogers of Scarborough. He tries to please everyone and everyone likes him. An idea man with good communication skills. The only strike against him might be that he needs to be present more often.	B-
Deborah Spencer Vice-Pres. Admin.	A very low profile Vice-President. Other than her project about SCSC constitutional changes we haven't heard or seen very much of her.	C-
Loretta Bartozzi Vice-Pres. Finance	Fairly competent. Although late, her budget was responsibly prepared. It was, however, poorly presented and explained. We will only know how well she did her job when we see the financial shape of SCSC at the end of the year.	C
Brad Feraday Services Com.	Enthusiastic but restricted in resources. His projects have been unsuccessful in reaching the majority of students but he has had to salvage a poorly financed commission.	C+
Helen Christodoulou Commun. Com.	A job well done with good results. Visible, accessible and enthusiastic. Some of the tasks in her commission have been eliminated, but she has started a number of changes and innovations in her commission.	B
Manju Kakkar Cultural Com.	We have only witnessed two projects in her commission so far, but these events were well attended.	C
Fred Moscovici Academics Com.	We haven't really seen Fred do very much yet. There have not been any special projects and the clubs function fairly independently.	D-
Nancy Yee Part Time Com.	Nancy has tried to reach the students through newsletters, notice boards, and part time get togethers but her success has been limited due to the apathy of the part time population.	C
Year Representatives	As a group they have not organized anything, nor have they expressed any intention to do so. Individuals have participated on some projects.	D-
SAC Representatives	Very quiet on council. They don't really voice the concerns or problems that SAC address during the year.	D
Sanjiv Patel Residence Council Pres.	Works hard in co-ordinating residence activities. Sanjiv, Paul and the rest of Residence Council should be commended for their efforts.	B

This is the last issue of The Underground this year and we would like to thank some very special people. Steve Turner (the former President of the Library Club) for his fine photographic skills. Debi Winter for her fast fingers (don't ask). Ingrid, Julie, Premiata, John, Geraldine, Munjeera, Christine, Lynda, Cindy, Nick, Nieves, Zain, Zahir, Teagen, Leona and the countless others who have helped make this paper a shining example of what students with nothing better to do can achieve. Oh yah, I forgot Sava (Sava!) and Ruth. O.K. now that we've finished the syrupy stuff. Byron dropped hot coffee on his lap. Mel says thats the most excitement Byron's had all year. Is it, Bryon? Vangie was nicknamed Spungie. Rod says "that's 'cause she's soft and absorbs all food particles." Mean, Rod. Funny, but mean.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGES

Hey Whale Butt.

Get a life, gastandess from Hell. There is more to life than being O.T.R.!

The Skinny One

D-One Hockey Group:

Please wash your hands! (phew)

The non-player

D-9.

My babies are better than yours! P.S. MC, HNY, etc. etc., etc.

To My Wittle Wabbit.

On the screen it was bigger but mine is better! Thanks for being yourself. Don't ever change. You're all mine!!

B.B.

P.S. I called the Y.M.C.A.

Forget New Jersey. The hockey's no good there. Merry Christmas and welcome to the team.

A Scavenger

E.N. Tombinson.

Have a festive holiday. Let's play some hockey (box) during the break.

School Bully

Dear Hoosiers (D.C.)

An urgent message asks you to please stop burning 'Hot Cakes' anymore. We all hope you've sold many sweaters so you'll be able to have an enjoyable X'mas shopping spree. By the way please control yourself during the hol's and not watch any of those triple X rated movies. Merry X'mas from ...

Mom, Dad & the Family

Gerrie.

See you on the snowy slopes. Have a great Christmas. Keep scouting!

T. Rex

Vangie.

I didn't even get a Christmas message this year? O.K., I don't care. It's not really important, really. I don't mind. Merry Christmas cutie.

Wishless and Lonely

Dearest Pestilence.

We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!! Hope you are doing well overseas. We miss you a lot and are looking forward to having you back again next year! Love,

Glig, Grammage, Beaver, Toast and E-man XXXOOO

Dearest Stephen.

Santa made me ask this: Where do you live? But I guess that doesn't matter 'cause you are going to Scotland. Have an amazing Christmas holiday, wherever!! Love,

HZ XXXOOO

To The Underground Staff.

Despite the fact that I've had to buy a bullet proof vest, and dodge potential killers in the hall and become a raving paranoid, & still think you're all worth it. What more can I say that I haven't said before? You're all the epitome of true friendship. I mean, who else would take off their coats in below zero temperature and freeze their butts off, just because I was stupid enough not to bring a coat? I have and always will consider you my dearest friends and nothing or no one will ever change this. Please have a Merry Christmas and awesome New Year!

With all my love (oops. I mean deepest regards). Helen Karl.

We have to do the 'peach schnapps thing' again real soon - how many times has it been? Merry Xmas, kid!

Luv, Cathy

Maryanne.

Save some money on long distance calls to buy some Christmas presents, O.K.?

Your friend always. Cathy

Paul Ho (who?):

I love your buns,
I hate your puns.
You can't deny all,
You are my idol.

LUV YOU Baby. Vangie

Caroline:

Look, Caroline ... this is hard for us to say, but ... we've been seeing someone without you. I ... we ... please, you've got to try and understand. Anthro's getting kind of boring and, well, ... O.K., it's true, I've been having SANTA delusions. Anyway, our psychoanalyst says Santa is a positive step away from weirdness, so ... I'm going for it. We've been through a lot together, but it's time to move on. You're on your own, now. I'm dressing up your voodoo doll - white beard, silly hat, red suit - the whole bit, and we're staring over; Santa, the Artsy, and Me (the Artsy's too weird - I couldn't give him up just yet). Formerly you,

Formerly you, Aladia Sane

"JERIS rates cheers for greaseless good grooming and healthier, handsomer hair"
says Ronald Reagan

ONLY DANDRUFF-DESTROYING* JERIS HAS THIS FRESH, CLEAN-SCENTED MASCULINE FRAGRANCE

Of all the hair tonics on the market, JERIS and only JERIS brings you all these hair benefits:

1. Greaseless good grooming.
2. Healthier, handsomer hair.
3. Scalp-stimulation: Daily JERIS massage helps promote healthy hair growth, relieves dry scalp, excessive falling hair.
4. Destroys dandruff germs on contact:* antiseptic action instantly removes ugly dandruff flakes.
5. Exclusive masculine fragrance: daily use of JERIS leaves hair clean-scented. Economical, too! Get JERIS today at drug counters—professional applications at barber shops—everywhere.

JERIS is not greasy to the touch, won't discolor coat collars, can't soil shirts, stain hats or upholstery. For greaseless good grooming insist on JERIS Hair Tonic.

When George's dome was greasy
The dames shooed him away.
He switched to greaseless JERIS
He's a glamour boy, today!

JERIS KILLS DANDRUFF GERMS* ON CONTACT. *Pityrosporum ovale, which many authorities recognize as the cause of infectious dandruff is destroyed by Jeris Antiseptic Hair Tonic.

To Topo. Gallina

Well, babe this is our first Christmas together, sort of. For your information, it is now 9 months minus 1 week or rather (3 days). Anyway, what can I say, except - what do you want for Christmas ... besides that (yes, you know what!). It will take more convincing on your part (so keep on working on it). If you're wondering what I want, I've already got it, I'll just ask - do you come in a package? Thanks for sticking it out. Who knows maybe next year I can convince you that love comes first then you know what. (If I can't, well that's your loss). Merry Christmas.

Hi Suzette!! Haven't heard from you for months!! What have you been doing with your life lately? Oh well...MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR !!!

from Flipstyle

P.S. Say hi to your mom and cousins

To the Women of the Underground.

Why are there so few of you?! Don't you have friends?? Seriously, you all brighten up the office, Thanks. I promise to try to be less crude next term, and try to keep my wallet out of my back pocket!!

Little Shop A Herbivorous Delight

By Vangie Nitsopoulos

Little Shop of Horrors is very strange, illogical, bizarre, somewhat macabre, and absolutely wonderful.

Based on the long running Off-Broadway play of the same name, the comedy/musical tells the timeless story of "a boy, a girl, and a man-eating plant."

Rick Moranis of Second City fame stars as Seymour, the nerdy but cute botanical genius who works at Mushnick's Flower Shop on Skid Row.

Seymour discovers a curious looking plant after an unexpected total eclipse of the sun.

The strange plant perks up business for the ailing flower shop and soon brings nation-wide recognition to Seymour, the plant wizard.

Along the way Seymour discovers true love with Audrey, a slightly dippy, slightly masochistic, but very sweet buxom blonde played to perfection by Ellen Greene.

Problems develop, however, when Seymour discovers that the plant, nicknamed Audrey II, needs human blood to survive.

Suddenly Seymour is trapped between horticultural infamy and carnivorous larceny.

In his first singing role, Moranis is very appealing as the skid row orphan seeking happiness, true love and a lifetime supply of RH negative blood.

His character is played expertly but is overshadowed by other, more flashy characters and is perhaps not enough to propel him into the comic stardom status he deserves.

The virtually unknown Greene, however, is sure to receive recognition. Armed with a knock-em-dead singing voice, she recreates, on film, the character she performed for two years in the Off-Broadway show.

Her woman/child character whiles away her hours dreaming of domestic happiness with Seymour, complete with children, tupperware parties and an astro-turf lawn.

Steve Martin also makes an appearance as Audrey's sadistic, leather-clad, Elvis-type, biker boyfriend, Orin Scrivello.

Scrivello is a "leader of the plaque" dentist who, in a hilarious scene, sings about his mother's decision to make him a dentist because he has "a talent for causing pain."

The musical score of Little Shop is fantastic, combining the do-wop Motown sound of the sixties with comic lyrics suited to the film's humour.

It features a variety of talented voices, an example of which is Levi Stubbs of The Four Tops, who performs the voice of Audrew II.

Expecially talented and suited to the play are Michelle Weeks, Tichina Arnold and Tisha Campbell, three Supreme-type singers who harmonize their way through the film's action.

Fittingly enough, muppeteer Frank Oz provides the direction for the film. Since the film focuses on the flesh-eating Audrey II. Oz's main task was the creation and direction of the creature.

Oz and crew used as many as forty puppeteers and eleven and a half miles of cable to create Audrey II.

The result is a film that achieves a certain attractiveness in its off-the-wall plot. Little Shop of Horrors comes together quite nicely and is a kooky but entertaining movie.

Skid Row foundling Seymour (Rick Moranis) has a heart-to-heart talk with Audrey II, the Venus people-trap.

By Hanif Sarangi

There was no fear of being trampled by the crowds at last Friday's Meeting Place concert at Scarborough Campus.

The reggae band, 20th Century Rebels, the Q107 Homegrown winners and a nominee for the Canadian Reggae Group Of The Year, were able to draw only 90 students to the concert. The capacity for the Meeting Place is 350 people.

According to Scarborough Campus Student Council Services Commissioner Brad Feraday "they were small in number, but many in spirit!"

Despite the small crowd, everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves and almost everyone was on the dance floor the entire night.

Feraday is concerned about the poor turnout and asks students to bring in any suggestions or recommendations they may have on how to improve the attendance at SCSC Meeting Place concerts.

Mosquito Coast Has No Sting

By Pete Santangeli

The Mosquito Coast, the latest big release to come out of Warner Brothers studios, is a film filled with great moments, but lacks the glue to hold them altogether.

The cast and crew of this film reads like a who's who of recent film success stories. Directed by Peter Weir, and starring Harrison Ford, the film certainly has the personnel necessary to be a giant success. Unfortunately, the end product does not live up to its potential.

The film is about a man, Allie Fox (Harrison Ford) driven to fulfill his personal dream - to bring ice to the steaming hot regions of the jungle. Along with him on this unlikely quest are his wife (Helen Mirren) and his family of four children.

From the outset, this film seems unbelievable, and sadly remains that way throughout. Harrison Ford portrays an inventor, who is so disappointed with the current state of western life that he packs up everything and heads for the jungle.

He buys himself a town, and proceeds to create a dreamlike jungle colony complete with air-conditioning and cold running water. Alas, the forces of evil, in the form of soldiers of fortune, raise their heads and Fox's dreams are reduced to rubble.

The film then proceeds to chart out the further failures of Fox as his world crumbles around him and he slowly loses his grip on life and his vision.

Throughout the film, the viewer is stuck with the shaky characterization provided by Ford. Fox's character seems full of contradictions, and in one misplaced scene, his killing of three men seems to go completely against everything he preaches.

This difficulty, coupled with a truly wild premise, and at times very poor production quality seems to create a long (over two hours) movie that falls down when the story is considered as a whole.

Would I recommend this movie? If you are looking to be entertained, you could do much worse than to spend your $5.50 on The Mosquito Coast.

If you are looking for a good, believable story that doesn't rely on glitter to put its point across, you might be better off looking somewhere else.

Football Team Wins Mulock Cup

The Underground photo by Rod Morin

Another pass attempt thwarted by the stingy Scarborough Secondary

By Rod Morin

The Mulock Cup, held last Thursday at Varsity stadium, featured the same two teams that met a year ago. Defending champions, Physical Education, squared off against the undefeated Scarborough Campus team to determine the 1986 division I interfaculty football champion.

This year, in the 92nd Mulock Cup, Scarborough erased memories of last year's disappointing loss with a 30-0 thrashing of Phys. Ed.

Scarborough dominated the game on all fronts. Offensively, quarterback Mike Henley threw for four touchdowns and three conversions.

Credit the offensive line for much of Henley's success, as they stymied the Phys. Ed. pass rush for the majority of the game.

Defensively, Scarborough backs stalled the Phys. Ed. air attack as they picked off five pass attempts on the afternoon.

Kaedmon Nancoo led the defensive backs with two interceptions, raising his total to eight for the season. Louie Yi, Lionel Carter and Lanch Hettiarachchi accounted for the other interceptions.

Phys. Ed. had limited success running the ball in the first quarter, but were later forced to throw the ball when Scarborough totalled 24 points before the half.

Craig Young scored 14 of Scarborough's points with two touchdowns and a two point conversion.

Wide receiver Jim Richardson, who was tightly marked in last week's semi-final against St. Mike's, broke loose on the last play of the first half to score a 70 yard touchdown. He also added the two point conversion.

Rounding out the scoring for Scarborough was Chris Leger, who's fourth quarter touchdown raised the Scarborough total to 30 points.

This year's squad displayed great character and deserve congratulations for bringing Scarborough the first Mulock Cup since 1977. Well done men.

Recruiting? Varsity Blues coach Doug Mitchell takes in the action of the Mulock Cup last Thursday.

'A' Hockey Takes Third In A Row

By Val Millar

In their three year reign as league champions, the Scarborough men's "A" hockey team have had one constant thorn in their side. That thorn is New College.

It seems that every year New manages to blemish Scarborough's impressive record. On November 19th Scarborough managed to put an end to the hex with an impressive 5-3 victory over New.

Scarborough opened the scoring on goals by Gary Soper and John Lyons. New then tied the score, but Craig Marshall and David Rosenberg answered for Scarborough.

Scarborough never relinquished the lead, as Bill Douris scored the insurance goal on a nifty backhand.

The men's "A" team increased their win streak to three games with a 2-0 whitewash of Victoria College last Thursday. Scoring for Scarborough in this game were Bill Douris and John Doma, who scored on a end to end rush.

Shayne Smith played a standout game for Scarborough as did goaltender Tom Hands, who recorded the shutout.

The "A" team takes to the ice once again this Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. against the Engineers at Varsity Stadium. It should be an entertaining game.

what's a pretty girl like you doing in Sciences?
Well, girls aren't usually organized enough to do Chem, right? No head for math!
Hey, you'd only be in that class to meet a man, right?
y'know, you'd be an okay-looking chick if it wasn't for your skin problem
